The first song I ever heard Selia Qynn sing was "Shades of Blue" and I was hooked. She is a confident guitarist and a determined songwriter. Her voice is hauntingly true and soothing. With these talents, Selia Qynn embraces the very reason singers sing and writers write; to provide the world with art that's entertaining and thought-provoking. Artistically speaking, listening to Selia Qynn's passion for song is no less gratifying than gazing upon a Van Gogh or Monet, and can be just as calming. Selia offers four titles here and they are all gems. The Moon & Me is a re-vamped release of Qynn's first cassette which is long out of print, and just as well, because this enhanced version is a well produced project. Qynn captures an electric side to pop-folk music with the help of Bill Wood on guitar on "Let It Go", while continuing to lazily wind down country back roads with cuts like "I Can't Ask". The Surreal Life Adventures of Stella Quest is a narrated production that works like a 66 minute choreographed musical. I haven't enjoyed a CD like this since I played Pink Floyd's Dark Side Of The Moon while watching The Wizard Of Oz. (I think you start the CD on the second roar of the lion...or something like that) Stella Quest is a clever production worth every penny. Qynn's third release is Charmed Existence and is perfectly engineered by Karl Caillouet. The retro-styled "Miss You Like Crazy" is refreshing, and Qynn pays tribute to her first love (Elvis) by including a very nice rendition of "I Can't Help Falling In Love". When you need a little more Selia Qynn, along comes Unreleased. This is a fine collection of songs including that one that got me hooked in the first place. Now you can enhance your CD shelf with any of these titles for only 13.99. You'll be the next Selia Qynn fan!!
